INTERNATIONAL YOUTH CAMP 2008

Few Words about the DOVES OLYMPIC MOVEMENT

The Doves Olympic Movement is an educational sports initiative based on the philosophy and principles of the Olympic Movement. Our program aims to use Sports toward achieving educational objectives, to promote global citizenship and to facilitate personal and cultural development in our global society. Our model includes learning of fundamental values and life skills through sports and engaging in selected educational topics that facilitate personal and cultural change and development. Through our model, children, parents and instructors from diverse socioeconomic background, race, gender, religion and ethnicity, come together and engage in activities that facilitate character development and promote social inclusion. We believe that Olympism provides the essential framework toward achieving our goals. The educational topics of our program include five domains, which we consider as fundamental building blocks toward achieving the objectives of our program: Ethics and Olympic development, Technology literacy, Art and music, Human Rights and Global Citizenship, Environmental awareness, Health and well being.

The Doves Olympic Movement is organizing an International Youth Camp based on the philosophy and principles of the Olympic Movement. The camp aims to enhance multicultural interaction and global citizenship.
